HAWKESBURY - NEPEAN RIVER

THE PROJECT

Extent Heritage was engaged to undertake a suite of archaeological services as part of a major infrastructure project, including Aboriginal archaeological excavation. Over a three-year period (including both desktop research and several months in the field), our large team of specialists worked with seven traditional owner groups to investigate, excavate and carefully recover a 20,000-year-old occupation site on the banks of the Hawkesbury-Nepean River.

SERVICES

- Archaeological Assessments
- Research Designs
- Indigenous Archaeology
- Salvage
- Excavation

VALUE UNLOCKED

Our work yielded large quantities of highly significant archaeological data crucial to reconstructing our ancient past, while we worked closely with our client to minimise delays to the development of major road infrastructure.
